He joined the DESU, (Department of Power) in 1988 thereafter, it was transformed to 'Delhi Vidyut Board', which is now called 'Delhi Transco Limited'. I graduated from 'Punjab Engineering college' in 1985, which was established in 1921 in Lahore, and was then shifted to Roorkee and Chandigarh. He has worked in 'Extra high Voltages' transmission network in the past 34 years and have been handling the Substations network, Power transformers, of major part of West Delhi, till 2019. This was carried out in coordination with DISTRIBUTION COMPANIES 'Reliance Power', 'Tata Power' and 'Delhi Metro', NDMC and MES. Thereafter, He has been given the charge to complete the architecture of 'Electric Vehicles Charging Stations' for the entire capital city of Delhi. In this regard, work has begun with full zeal and fervour as 'Electric Vehicles' are the vehicles of tomorrow. On the academic front, He has been teaching in various technical Institutions, in and around Delhi. he do so due to sheer passion and Joy for my subject. In his opinion it is utmost important to facilitate the gap between Academia and Industry, keeping in mind the bright future that young students look forward to. To this regard, He has started teaching in the following Universities. 1) Delhi Technological University. 2) Delhi Transport Department 3) PUNJAB Engineering college 4) Amity University 5) Delhi University. 6) IIT DELHI 7) NIT TRICHY.
